her marriage to Henry Toopfer annulled. The youthful bride is heartily sick of the bargain and she feels humiliated as well, because she was held so cheaply by her parents and her husband. She alleges that her parents traded her to Toopfer for a team of horses and a cheap wagon. "They were old, spavined, ring-boned horses and it was nothing but a rickety old wagon, too," declares the bride with considerable resentment. The court has taken the case under advisement and ordered that the parents appear in court and explain the transaction.

FALL INTO DETECTIVES' TRAP.

Two Alleged "Green-goods" Men Caught by Officers Disguised.

New York, Sept. 22.—In the familiar guise of prospective purchasers from the country, two detectives met, by appointment, and arrested two alleged "green-goods" men at a house in West Sixty-fifth street.
The prisoners, who were charged with selling "green goods" and held for the federal authorities, gave the names of Thomas Ryan, fifty-four years old, and James Gilbert, forty-five years old, with city addresses.

TRUSTS THE ISSUE.

Bryan Reads Out of the Party Monopolists.
(By Associated Press.)
Lincoln, Neb., September 22.—In a signed editorial which will appear in the forthcoming edition of the Commoner, W. J. Bryan declares trusts to be the dominating issue and practically reads out of the party all those connected with monopolies. He says: "If you believe with me in having the democratic party free from the taint of corporations I urge you to present the matter to your neighbors. Doubtless there are many democrats connected with these corporations, some of them, officially, who would put the interest of the party above their corporations, but such men know enough about human nature to know how impossible it is to convince the public of their disinterestedness and if they really feel a deep interest in the party success they will not thrust themselves upon the party in an official way, or even allow themselves to be persuaded to become officers of the party organization."
